

RUSSIANS LOSE HOPE; ADMIT FORT WILL FALL SOON

Port Arthur Squadron Makes Another Sortie But Commander Changes Mind and Returns to Harbor Before Encountering the Japs.

400 GUNS ARE BELCHING SHELLS ON DOOMED CITY

Water Supply Is Cut Off and the Operations Are That the Storming Operations Are Planned if Not Actually Begun.

DISASTER TO RUSSIAN FLEET IN A NUTSHELL Of the battleships and cruisers in the Port Arthur and Vladivostok squadrons that participated in the fatal dash from both ports to effect a junction under Admiral Skrydloff's orders, the following is known from the latest dispatches: PORT ARTHUR FLEET. Battleship Casarevitch, at Tientsin-Chou, hopelessly disabled, dismantled and disarmed, at German's order. Battleship Revizun, Pohlada, Peresvet, Sevastopol and Poltava returned to Port Arthur heavily damaged. Revizun and Pohlada may be out of action. Cruiser Novik, escaped, but unofficially reported sunk off Tientsin-Chou by the Japanese Monday morning. Cruiser Pallada, torpedoed and sunk Wednesday night. Cruiser Diana, reported to have returned to Port Arthur, but not confirmed. Cruiser Askold, in Shanghai harbor, so badly damaged she must disarm. Torpedo boat Ryschikoff seized by Japanese in Chefoo harbor. Torpedo boat Burevich, torpedoed and sunk. Torpedo boat Gromobol, at Shanghai, dismantled. Torpedo boats Besposhadni, Beschumi and Besstrachni, at Tientsin-Chou, dismantled. VLADIVOSTOK SQUADRON. Cruiser Harek, sunk. Cruisers Gromobol and Rossia, heavily damaged, but able to escape to Vladivostok.

CHEFOO, Aug. 16.—The Russian fleet, it is reported, in its sortie today, did not encounter the Japanese fleet. Nevertheless, it returned to Port Arthur.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 16.—The news of the defeat of the Vladivostok squadron has added another crushing blow to the reverse at Port Arthur.

No public announcement has yet been made of the sinking of the Rurik.

The Chefoo report of the sortie today of the Russian warship from Port Arthur naturally cannot be confirmed and the admiralty is puzzled to know whether it refers to the ships which remained in the harbor when the main squadron went out, Aug. 10, or to ships of the late Admiral Witthof's original squadron.

In either event, however, it is construed as evidence that the shells of the Japanese land batteries are falling on the harbor rendering it impossible for the ships to remain there any longer. It is also interpreted in some quarters as indicating the eve of the storming of the fortress.

CHEFOO, Aug. 16.—With 400 guns continuously belching shells into the city, destroying lives and wrecking buildings, the fall of Port Arthur is a daily possibility.

The Japanese are proceeding to the reduction of the city with the wonderful system that has characterized all their operations since the opening of this war.

While they keep the entire city under a rain of projectiles, their plan is to concentrate many guns on a certain strategic point, batter down the fortifications and then drive the defenders out by an infantry assault.

Despite the Russian reports that the Japanese are recklessly risking life in these attacks, the more authentic news indicates that they are working cautiously and looting just as few men as possible.

They have already taken all the heights around the fortress and 100 guns are trained on that structure.

But even the Russian refugees here concede the place cannot hold out longer than a week under the terrible battering it is now receiving.

The hope of the city was sealed Sunday when the Japanese seized, after a desperate engagement, the springs from which the place drew its fresh water supply.

That Gen. Stoessel sees the impending doom is evidenced by his sending his wife and two children away under the non-combatant permit granted by the Mikado. Field Marshal Oyama is in personal command.

POLICE NOW THINK RYAN IS OPERATING AS LONE FOOTPAD

Description of Highwayman Who Robbed Silas C. Haggerty Last Night Tallies Exactly With Watchman Moore's Slayer—Believe He Is Trying to Raise Money for Flight.

ARE THESE MEN IDENTICAL? THE LONE FOOTPAD. BURT OR "BUD" RYAN, Age 28 or 30 years. Five feet 8 inches tall. Weighs 150 pounds. Light hair. Light mustache. Dark clothes. Black stiff hat. THE LONE FOOTPAD. Age 30 years. Five feet 8 inches tall. Weighs 140 pounds. Blonde mustache. Dark coat and trousers. White straw sailor hat. Small black tie.

Is Burt Ryan, the alleged murderer of Watchman John Moore, still in St. Louis? The police now believe he may be the man who robbed Silas C. Haggerty of 1307 Prairie avenue at Twenty-second street and Lucas avenue at 10:15 o'clock Monday night. The description of the highwayman furnished by Haggerty seems to tally with that of the man who killed Watchman Moore and shot Detective Lynch last Wednesday night on Pine street, near Grand avenue.

Detectives are now working on the theory that Ryan is still in St. Louis and that he is in hiding not far from Olive street and Grand avenue.

They believe that Ryan needed money to escape from St. Louis and that he thought he could more safely hide in this city than he could attempt to escape without money. They believe he has been waiting until he thought active efforts for his apprehension had ceased, and that he could then commit a robbery and obtain enough money to take him far from the scene of his crime.

This view was taken by the police the moment they received the description of the highwayman from Haggerty, and noted the close similarity of the descriptions. Work was immediately commenced upon the clues afforded by the description and the location of the crime, and it was not believed Ryan would dare go far from his hiding place.

Until this time the police have believed that Ryan had left St. Louis, although they have been able to get no evidence to confirm this belief.

Ryan's complete disappearance since robbing the Dew Drop saloon at 230 Olive street Thursday afternoon has baffled the police. They have been unable to obtain trace of him. He has been unheard of since that time. He might have left the city, or he might be in hiding within a stone's throw of the main business street of the city. Both theories have been closely followed, but neither has disclosed a trace of the fugitive.

As Silas C. Haggerty passed the corner of Twenty-second street and Lucas avenue a few minutes after 10 o'clock he was robbed at the point of a revolver by a man whose description is so near that of Ryan that the police believe them to be the same. The robber secured $10 in money and a pearl stickpin valued at $15 from Haggerty.

If this man is Ryan, and if he has been waiting to commit a robbery to get money to leave the city, the police believe that he will not leave with only $10, and that they will hear from him again.

Every avenue of escape from the city is closely guarded by men so familiar with Ryan's description that it will be next to an impossibility for him to escape them now, say the police, if he is still in St. Louis.

This watch will be maintained until other detectives have gone over the city with a fine-tooth comb. When it is known definitely that Ryan is not in the city, then the department will allow its efforts to relax, but not before, officials say.

Not alone are the detectives of St. Louis searching for this man, but officers in every city in the country are on the lookout for him. Five thousand circulars describing him have been sent out. The police are certain that he will ultimately be captured, but not before, officials say.

They hope he is in St. Louis, but feel confident that if he ever comes out of hiding in any of the larger cities his capture will be effected.

An officer was sent to Greenville, Ill., last night with Ralph Card, the man from whom Ryan secured a panama hat, to look at the suspect arrested there. The prisoner was not Ryan.

A correspondent who failed to sign his or her name sends $1 for Mr. Moore, with the wish and suggestion and other people do likewise until the immediate wants of the family, at least, shall have been supplied. This money will be turned over to the benevolent woman by the Post-Dispatch.

BODYGUARD OF PRES. FRANCIS SMOTE VISITOR

Man Who Wouldn't Be Turned Away From Private Office of Exposition President Is Worsted in Battle Following His Insistence.

FORMER EMPLOYEE BELIEVED HE HAD BEEN ILL TREATED

Fistic Encounter Creates Excitement Among Visitors at Administration Building and Ends in Call for Police, Who Lock Up Disturber.

W. D. Higgins, bodyguard of President Francis of the World's Fair, had to fight Tuesday at noon to keep James E. Gillespie, a former employee with a grievance, from forcing his way into the private office of the president.

He overpowered the man, who seemed to be under the impression that he had been badly treated, and with the assistance of C. O. Tingley, another Jefferson Guard, locked him in a room until the arrival of the police.

Higgins was on guard in the corridor just outside the door to President Francis' office in Administration building when Gillespie mounted the stairs hurriedly and brushing past the office boys attempted to walk straight into the office.

"Where are you going?" asked Higgins. "You can't go in now," said Gillespie. "He's busy. You will have to go into the waiting room and wait your turn."

"I'm going in there now," said Gillespie. He tried to go past Higgins, who seized him by the arm and detained him. Gillespie jerked himself loose and struck Higgins in the face. Higgins did not strike back, but he threw himself on Gillespie and pinned his arms and held him, preventing him from striking again until help arrived.

The sounds of the struggle drew clerks and office boys from waiting rooms and Guard Tingley came running up the stairs and tried to the assistance of Higgins.

Mrs. Julius Pelasara, Whose Life Was Saved in Race With Death

MOB DISARMS TROOPS SENT TO SUPPRESS IT

Then It Seizes Telegraph Operator and Closes Office So It May Execute Vengeance on Negroes Unmolested If It Decides to Lynch Them.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 16.—A special from Statesboro says trouble over the trial of the negroes there is imminent. The soldiers sent by the governor yesterday have been forcibly disarmed by the citizens.

Judge Daly, who conducted the trial, is on the courthouse steps at this hour (4 p. m.) pleading with the people for quiet. The mob is growing in number and is lynching is feared at any moment.

The riot call has been sounded in this city (Savannah) for the militia to assemble.

Two negro women and 15 negro men, implicated in a murder, are the mob's intended victims.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.—The officials of the Western Union Telegraph Co. have been advised by the managers of their company at Savannah that the mob at Statesboro has seized the Western Union operator there and closed up the telegraph office at Statesboro. It is impossible at this time to communicate with Statesboro by telegraph.

When Bertha Altroy, at the age of 15 years, married Julius Pelasara, only two years older than herself, the neighbors smiled indulgently at their youthful passion, and none of them dreamed of the sad ending of their romance which was to come nine years later.

And by that same token many of them pity the young wife today as she lies in the City Hospital with her still young face disfigured by the burns of carbolic acid, with which she attempted to destroy her life, and as she moaningly insists that she still wants to die.

By her side sits her young husband, holding her hand and pleading with her to be hopeful again and to be reconciled to him, as she has so earnestly desired when she sent her little son for his Monday night visit with word to meet her in O'Fallon Park.

But she will not be reconciled, and why this is so the husband cannot understand; neither can he understand why it was that she took the acid after they had practically agreed to forget their former differences and live together in peace again.

"I want to die," she insists. A year ago the young couple, quarreled and Mrs. Pelasara took her two children and went to live with her mother, Mrs. Altroy, at 2303 North Twelfth street.

Finally Mrs. Pelasara decided to take the initiative, but it seems that she had determined to die in case her petition should prove without avail, for when she refused her husband to meet her near the lake in O'Fallon Park she had already prepared herself with a bottle of carbolic acid.

He came and they talked over their affairs for half an hour. They had practically decided to resume their marital relations, when an uncontrollable impulse seized the young wife.

She placed her hat on the bench where they had been seated and walked about thirty feet into the darkness. In a moment her husband heard her scream and ran to her side.

Frantically he walked her through the park, a quarter of a mile, to the terminus of the O'Fallon Park branch of the Suburban electric line, and put her on a car. The motorman, being informed of the situation, turned his car loose at top speed and sped like mad to Frohman's drug store at Lee and Fair avenues, half a mile away.

Pelasara was unconscious by this time and appeared to be dying. Dr. John F. Reuter was summoned, and for two hours he labored to restore her to consciousness, while 200 curious persons thronged around the drug store, seeking admission.

STONE INSULTS HIS PARTY, SAYS CANDIDATE FOLK

Question Whether United States Senator Will Support State Ticket Is "of Minor Importance," Says Democratic Candidate for Governor.

PARTY BETTER OFF WITHOUT "SUCH MEN," HE DECLARES

Charge That Folk Tried to Ally Himself With Cook and Allen Denied, and Stone Described as "Gliding Around Trying to Create Trouble."

Following his assertion that the Missouri Democracy would be better off without such men as United States Senator William J. Stone in its councils, Joseph W. Folk, Democratic candidate for governor, has declared that the question whether Stone will support the state ticket is one "of minor importance."

As told in the late editions of Monday's Post-Dispatch, Mr. Folk replied with unqualified denial to Senator Stone's charge that he had before the convention favored the nomination of Cook and Allen and sought an alliance with them. He says he was opposed to both, but felt that he had no right to dictate to the convention.

He declared that Stone was "gliding around trying to create trouble." Stone had declared that Folk had dissuaded him by promises from making a speech before the state committee Aug. 4, and from then and there demanding from Folk a pledge that he would support the entire ticket.

Folk's version of the same incident is: "I told him to go ahead and do as he pleased; that I would not be bulldozed by him."

In a supplemental statement issued Monday night, Mr. Folk says: "Senator Stone insults the Democracy of this state by the suggestion that any candidate on a duly nominated state ticket will not support the other candidate, all the nominees of one convention."

"Senator Stone, by broad inference, attacks the head of the ticket chosen by his own party, an unparalleled instance of political irregularity. His two-column tirade can have no other purpose than to embarrass the party that has placed him in his high position."

"The Jefferson City convention was a convention of the people. There was no alliance, agreement, understanding or combine of any nature between any of the candidates nominated. I am on record in half a dozen instances as saying that I would have no part in dictating the nominees of a convention of Democrats with minds of their own and wills of their own."

The ticket nominated was not chosen by me or by any individual, but was the choice of the Democracy of Missouri. Every leader in that convention gives his hearty support to the ticket. This suggests a question of minor importance that may possibly interest good Democrats at this time: "Will Senator Stone follow the lead of Mr. Cook, Mr. Hawes and other men who took a hand in the Jefferson City convention and pledge himself to support the ticket, including the head of the ticket?"

"Or will he continue to support the ticket by assailing a part of it?" In describing the attitude of Senator Stone in his first statement, Mr. Folk said: "Every effort to embarrass Folk."

"I was told afterward that Senator Stone was inclining this man to question my loyalty to the ticket and to demand that I say something, the intent purpose being to embarrass me as much as possible and keep me from repeating my attitude on the ticket, so as to make Mr. Cook the issue and not the principles of the platform."

All of these controversies are plainly intended to divert the public mind from the issue on which the campaign for the nomination was carried on, to collateral disputes. I propose to keep up the fight just as I have from the beginning.

"It would be better for the party to have such men in open opposition than have them in the party councils, where they can do more harm than as open enemies."

"While the governorship is a great honor, if I find in achieving it that I must forfeit my self-respect, I will keep my self-respect."

An incident of the discussion raised by Stone has been the statement of Nelson W. McClellan that Senator Cockrell denounced Senator Stone with the assertion: "You are making an ass of yourself."

Attorney-General Crow, who was mentioned by Senator Stone as a party to the compact which, Stone declared, Folk desired to make with Cook and Allen, refuses to talk of the matter, saying that he does not wish to be drawn into the present controversy.

Secretary of State Sam B. Cook says: "It is unfortunate for the party that there should be any question raised that would predetermine a discussion at this time."

Agriculture Club Wants Air. Members of the World's Fair Agricultural club are asking for air. At a meeting of the club which is composed of exhibitors in the Agriculture building Tuesday a resolution was passed appointing a committee composed of Messrs. Hall of Missouri, M. S. Doddard of Canada and W. H. Lawson to interview the Exposition management regarding provision for better ventilation in the Agriculture building.

There are few doors in the building and the windows are always closed. The large amount of vegetable matter in the building is said to make the air become impure rapidly.

CORONER AWAITS CHEMIST'S REPORT

No Verdict Yet in Death of Mrs. Helms From Supposed Cream of Tartar.

No verdict will be rendered by the coroner in regard to the death of Mrs. Jennie Helms of New York until he receives a report from Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl, who will make a chemical analysis to determine the nature of a white powder found in her stomach.

Mrs. Helms, who was the wife of Moritz Helms, superintendent of the Home for Aged in New York, died at the Lindell Hotel Sunday from the effects of taking what she thought was cream of tartar.

Physicians who attended her say that the drug she took was tartar emetic or tartar of potassium, a poison.

The body was shipped to New York Monday night after Dr. Gradwohl had held an autopsy and removed the stomach. He reported at the inquest Tuesday that he found particles of grayish matter in the stomach. He explained that a chemical analysis will be necessary to say what the particles are.

The powder taken by Mrs. Helms was sold by Charles M. Farthing, a clerk at the Lindell pharmacy. He is held by the police to await the outcome of the inquest.

Mrs. Helms ordered cream of tartar because she was suffering from hives. Little Vinie Palmer, aged 8, daughter of J. L. Palmer, a World's Fair concessionaire, living at 420 Bell avenue, also took what she supposed was cream of tartar for hives. The powder she purchased came from a drug store at Delmar and Walton avenues.

The child grew sick after taking the powder, but recovered. Since then her parents have learned that she took Rochelle salts instead of cream of tartar.

In the hope of doing what he can to prevent such mistakes in the future, City Chemist Bernays has offered to chemically examine any questionable substance offered for sale either as medicine or food.

SHOWERS, BUT LITTLE CHANGE

It looks as if August is going to wane and go out without St. Louis having had any real August weather. The Weather Bureau officials are not able to find anything headed this way except the cool weather which St. Louis has been favored all summer, seemingly in honor of the great World's Fair.

There will be some local showers Tuesday night, but those are necessary to keep the temperature even.

The official forecast: "Local showers tonight; partly cloudy Wednesday; no decided change in temperature."

BOOK ON MORALS CAUSES SHOOTING

Author, Attacked by Man With a Club, Shot His Assassin in the Arm.

A little green book on manners and morals in Madison has plunged that manufacturing community into the throes of civic strife.

William Whitte, former principal of the Newport Public School in Madison, is the author of the book "Manners and Morals" which was deposed. In it he has discussed Madison men, methods, manners and morals in a very candid manner.

Because of his literary labors, Prof. Whitte was attacked with a club Monday afternoon by Philip Fairchild, the man and the professor shot Fairchild in the arm.

Prof. Whitte, who is a negro, had been principal of the Newport school since 1907. His removal was the act of a new administration.

During his incumbency Prof. Whitte had distinguished himself by assailing social customs in the community. He had come to be known as "Manners and Morals" by reason of his advocacy of good manners and good morals.

His removal caused him to be more emphatic in his crusade against customs he assailed.

The school board, which was elected last April, was composed of W. J. Franklin, president; T. P. Vermillion, John F. Breyer, B. F. Oliver, C. J. Glenn, O. F. Schooley and Samuel Smith.

Directly after his removal Prof. Whitte wrote his little book and had it bound in a green cover, ornamented by a portrait of himself. He entitled it, "A Story of a Colored Teacher's Experiences and Observations While Engaged in Public School Work in Newport, or West Madison, Ill."

He has been at the head of the school. He declared that he had been opposed because he had denounced the morals of the community. He especially attacked Philip Fairchild, who conducts a saloon and dance hall. He said in the book that Fairchild was dictator of the board. He specified Franklin, Breyer and Schooley as being under the influence of Fairchild.

He issued circulars addressed to "The Teachers' League of Madison and the Neighboring Public," calling attention to the book and stating what it contained.

He took the book Monday afternoon and started out with a club. He met the professor in front of the Presbyterian church and attacked him with the club, and Whitte shot him in the arm. Both were taken to the hospital.

The Citizens' League of Madison and the Neighboring Public are taking a good deal of interest in the controversy.

FLEECE, THEN MADE TO SIGN AGREEMENT

Edward McNabb of Pittsburgh Enticed Into Gambling Room on River Steamer.

Edward McNabb, who says he is a prosperous citizen of Pittsburgh, says that while he was a passenger on the excursion steamer Corwin H. Spencer he was approached by a man unknown to him who remarked that it was a shame that the police should permit the hoochie coochie dance which was going on at that very moment in a certain room on the deck below.

McNabb excitedly went in search of the exhibition named, but when he got there, he says, he found a gambling game instead of the hoochie coochie dance, and he had expected.

He took a hand in the game and came out minus $5, he says. Thereupon he accused the other players of unfairness. He says they told him that if he would sign an agreement stating that he had lost the money "on the high seas" and that he would not prosecute them they would give him $15 back. McNabb signed the agreement and took the money. After he reached shore he complained to the police, hoping to secure the other $10.

He stuck to his promise not to prosecute, and the police told him, under those circumstances, they could do nothing for him.

MRS. MANNING HAS RETURNED

Mrs. Belle L. Everest Also Back From Europe.

Mrs. Belle L. Everest, of Atchison, Kan., a member of the board of lady managers at the World's Fair, returned to St. Louis Tuesday morning from Europe.

Mrs. Everest came here in the spring, and was called away to Europe, where her son, Aaron, had been injured. He returns with her, and they will reside permanently in St. Louis through the rest of the Fair.

Mrs. Frederick Hanger, who has been in charge of the Woman's building during the absence of Mrs. Daniel Manning, the president of the Woman's building, returned to Little Rock, Ark., Mrs. Manning having relieved her at the Woman's building. Mrs. Manning has just returned from Europe, where she has been visiting Mrs. Charles J. Parker, the Democratic nominee for president.

"EXTRY! EXTRY!" NEWSBOYS' DAY AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Wireless Telegrams to the Post-Dispatch Tell of the Newsies' Big Doings and of the Battle Between the Squirrels and the Blue Jays.

VIA AMERICAN DE FOREST WIRELESS TELEGRAPH.
POST-DISPATCH WORLD'S FAIR BUREAU, Aug. 18.—This is Newsboys' Day at the World's Fair and exercises were held in the Hall of Congresses at 1 o'clock and in Festival Hall at 1:45.

The former meeting was for business only and to enable the boys to register. Besides St. Louis newsies there are delegations from Boston, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Minneapolis, Toledo and other cities.

The boys from Pittsburgh, Toledo and Minneapolis have organized brass bands and furnished music for the exercises. All the boys wear uniforms.

At the session in Festival Hall President Francis of the World's Fair delivered an address of welcome and Frank C. Gunkle of Toledo, organizer of the Newsboys' Day movement, made an address.

Several impromptu speeches were made and the newsboys' bands played in a massed concert.

BLUE JAYS BATTLE WITH SQUIRRELS AT THE FAIR

Via American de Forest Wireless Telegraph.

POST-DISPATCH WORLD'S FAIR BUREAU, Aug. 18.—With no receptions or tea to amuse them, the commissioners and hostesses in the Terrace of States at the World's Fair have been getting a bit of entertainment out of the fights between the blue jays and squirrels left over from the days when the fair was a "wilderness."

The reservations of Rhode Island, Pennsylvania and Nevada have been the scenes of the strife and it was a blue jay that had fallen from its nest in the Nevada reservation.

Commissioner Yerrington of Nevada had made pets of two tree squirrels by feeding them from his hand, and they had begun to be real chums with him, to the amusement of the other commissioners, when the young blue jay took a disastrous tumble one day and landed close to where the squirrels happened to be waiting for Mr. Yerrington.

The squirrels scampered around, looked at the fledgling and chattered.

The old blue jay, who was not to be taken in, delivered an address of welcome, to which Col. Henry C. Deming of Harrisburg, Pa., responded.

This was followed by the address of the president, C. G. Beale of Boston, a poem by John Collins of Dayton, O., and a paper on "Physiology and Psychology of Speed Writing," by George Farnell of Providence, Rhode Island.

Then to Rhode Island, with the jays in pursuit.

They hid in Rhode Island several days and then sneaked back to Nevada to find Yerrington, but the blue jays attacked them.

Every visit to Nevada for several days brought on a fight and the commissioners and hostesses who witnessed the battles thought the campaign was to last all summer.

But Yerrington interfered as peace maker. With nuts he coaxed the squirrels back to Nevada and the jays went away.

Now there is peace and no more excitement for the four days' session.

SHORTHAND REPORTERS IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Via American de Forest Wireless Telegraph.

POST-DISPATCH WORLD'S FAIR BUREAU, Aug. 18.—The sixth annual convention of the National Shorthand Reporters' Association opened at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning at the World's Fair.

For the four days' session 400 delegates are expected.

On behalf of the Missouri shorthand reporter, Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City delivered an address of welcome, to which Col. Henry C. Deming of Harrisburg, Pa., responded.

This was followed by the address of the president, C. G. Beale of Boston, a poem by John Collins of Dayton, O., and a paper on "Physiology and Psychology of Speed Writing," by George Farnell of Providence, Rhode Island.

MAYOR'S COUP IN POORHOUSE CASE

Refers Matter of Discharged Employees to Health Board, Raising Barrier in the Code.

Mayor Wells has found in the municipal code a clause which presents a barrier to the discharge of three employees of the Poorhouse, and has taken action decidedly favorable to them.

The clause in question reads: "No person discharged by the board of health shall be employed by the city of St. Louis for a period of one year after his discharge."

The three employees in question are: John Wilson, Dennis Breene and John Wilson. Wilson was discharged by the board of health on August 10, 1903, for being drunk on duty.

Breene was discharged on August 10, 1903, for being drunk on duty.

Wilson was discharged on August 10, 1903, for being drunk on duty.

The action of the mayor is construed as holding the men in their places, so that the health commissioner has never said that the men violated any rules, or that they were not competent to perform their duties. His reason for discharging them was that a lack of harmony existed between them and the superintendent.

Health Commissioner Simon says that at this season of the year, excursionists may avail themselves of many cheap and attractive lake trips and rail trips to Milwaukee, South Haven, Grand Haven, St. Joseph and a number of other pleasure resorts in Michigan and Wisconsin.

The only opportunity of the season.

OLD AGE

Come to Everyone, but Its Visits May Be Postponed.

Old age is not a question of years. Some men are old at 40, others are young at 60.

It's a mighty hard proposition to look young, no matter how young you feel, if your hair is falling out and your head becoming bald.

Perhaps you are tired trying ineffectual remedies for this evil.

We don't blame you if you are. Why not try an effective one for a change.

POST-DISPATCH WORLD'S FAIR BUREAU, Aug. 18.—This is Newsboys' Day at the World's Fair and exercises were held in the Hall of Congresses at 1 o'clock and in Festival Hall at 1:45.

The former meeting was for business only and to enable the boys to register. Besides St. Louis newsies there are delegations from Boston, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Minneapolis, Toledo and other cities.

The boys from Pittsburgh, Toledo and Minneapolis have organized brass bands and furnished music for the exercises. All the boys wear uniforms.

At the session in Festival Hall President Francis of the World's Fair delivered an address of welcome and Frank C. Gunkle of Toledo, organizer of the Newsboys' Day movement, made an address.

Several impromptu speeches were made and the newsboys' bands played in a massed concert.

BLUE JAYS BATTLE WITH SQUIRRELS AT THE FAIR

REPUBLICANS AT WORK ON STATE JUDICIAL TICKET

Convention Open in Jefferson City With Judge Houts as the Temporary Chairman—Bothwell Extols National and State Nominations.

HENRY LAMM HAS CALL FOR SUPREME JUDGESHIP

Bert D. Norton Is Slated for the St. Louis Court of Appeals Nomination and Johnson Will Probably Get the Kansas City Honor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 16.—It seems safe to say this will be the ticket nominated: For supreme judge, Henry Lam of Sedalia.

For judge of the Kansas City Court of Appeals, J. M. Johnson of St. Joseph.

For judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, Bert D. Norton of St. Louis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 16.—At 10:30 this morning the state Republican judicial convention was called to order in the hall of the House of Representatives by J. H. Bothwell of Sedalia, vice chairman of the state Republican central committee.

Rev. G. A. Chambers of the Episcopal church delivered the invocation. Mr. Bothwell then stated that it was in the absence of the chairman of the state central committee that he had been called upon to preside over this meeting, and, in a brief address, which was received enthusiastically by the delegates, he reviewed the records of the Republican judges of the state, and concluded by paying a high tribute to the national administration.

He declared that the Republican national ticket would be elected this fall, and also predicted the election of the state Republican ticket which he said had been badly needed.

O. L. Houts of Warrensburg was unanimously elected temporary chairman of the convention. Judge Houts was nominated by W. S. Dickey of Kansas City, and the nomination was seconded by Judge Spencer of St. Louis.

Mr. Bothwell then appointed Mr. Dickey and Judge Spencer to escort the temporary chairman to the chair. Judge Houts said that the Republican ticket was in convention to rally the will of the people. In that, he said, it differed from the Democratic party, which met simply to nominate candidates.

He referred to the action of the Chicago convention, which nominated Theodore Roosevelt, and the St. Joseph convention, which nominated Cyrus F. Walters, as being a complete ratification of the will of the people.

Clyde Taylor of Kansas City was selected temporary secretary, and Col. Fred Buehler of Jefferson City was elected permanent secretary of the convention. A recess of 20 minutes was then taken for the selection of the committee on resolutions.

When the convention reassembled, Chairman Houts stated that Mr. Bothwell had an announcement to make and Mr. Bothwell then extended the invitation of Gov. Dockery to the delegates and visitors to visit the executive office and mansion, and all the state offices and buildings.

Great applause and calls for speech from Gov. Dockery began all over the hall, and the governor took the stand. He was introduced by Chairman Houts as the last of the governor took the stand. He was introduced by Chairman Houts as the last of the governor took the stand. He was introduced by Chairman Houts as the last of the governor took the stand.

After quiet was restored, the governor said that until this introduction was made, he felt some hesitancy in making up his mind to address the convention, but, since his introduction by the chairman, he clearly understood the object of the convention in calling him to the stand. He also said that he was glad that there was a Republican party in Missouri, and he said that he wanted it to get too numerous. He wanted it to carry the state this fall, he said, just as it had been doing for the past 21 years. He also said he was sure he would not be permitted to leave the convention without error to the executive chair on the last of next January.

The committees were then announced by districts and the convention took a recess to 1:30 this afternoon.

QUEEN OF THE MERRY CHORUS WILL SEE FAIR WITHOUT HER RETINUE

Miss Julia Mooney of New York, Crowned by Theater Goers, Coming Next Week.

New York has decided who shall be termed the "Queen of the Chorus." The newly crowned queen is Miss Julia Mooney, and she will be in St. Louis, without her retinue, all the last week in August. Miss Mooney is the favorite member of the chorus of the "Fliff, Paff, Pout" company, playing an indefinite engagement in the Casino at New York. She is but 17 years old and made her first appearance on the stage three years ago in "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast." She has also appeared in "Mr. Bluebird," "Mary of Magdala," and in Nat Goodwin's production of "Midsummer Night's Dream." She comes of a theatrical family, three of her cousins, Hazel, Helen and Gipsy Mooney, being with DeWolf Hopper in "Wauw." A thousand and one discouragements had to be borne by exhibitors, but J. W. Goldberg, in charge of the art section, and M. Berkowitz, who is in the Varied Industries exhibit, are now pushing things to completion.

The Slavon plaster panels have arrived in a dilapidated condition. Almost all of them are smashed and will have to be reproduced. Mr. Berkowitz declares, however, he will have the exhibit ready in two weeks. The object of the exhibit is to show the characteristics of Slavonian life rather than exhibit the capabilities of Russian industry, but with $2000 worth of damage the task is a big one.

Mr. Goldberg denies any feeling of animosity on the part of Russia towards America. There is a feeling rather of surprise, he says, that American sympathies are so strongly in favor of the Japanese. "America is loved in Russia ever since America helped our starving people with bread," says Mr. Goldberg. "We have never forgotten their kindness in sending us two million dollars in 1877."

"There is no truth in the report that Russia abandoned the government participation in St. Louis, because of American sympathy for Japan."

M. Goldberg is working overtime in getting the 630 pictures hung in the Palace of Art. He expresses himself as delighted with the space allotted to him. In addition to three rooms on the ground floor, there are two admirably lighted rooms upstairs, which are the best in the building from the point of view of the artist, so well placed are the windows.

The 630 pictures represent ten different art societies, and are the work of 148 artists. Verestchagin is represented by a large canvas entitled "The Golden Cloud," inspired by a poem, "The Cliff."

One of the most interesting pictures, and one which has been reproduced in magazines the world over, is a painting by N. Tolstoy, a Russian literary leader, and Chirkov, Maxim Gorki, Raepin and Chirkov. Another picture by the same artist is the "Morning After Plevna," and shows the Russian soldiers after the battle of Plevna. The pictures are those of Mrs. Pedoshenko, representing Siberia.

The selection of Eva Booth to supreme command in America, succeeding her sister, Consul Emma Booth-Tucker, who met a tragic death in a railroad accident at Dean Lake, Ia., last fall, as the representative of the Booth family in America, will prove pleasing to the officers and members of the army here.

Her probable appointment has been spoken of ever since the death of Mrs. Booth-Tucker, after which it was known that Commander Booth-Tucker would probably be recalled to England to fill a place close in rank to that of Gen. Booth in international headquarters. It is now stated that Commander Booth-Tucker will probably become chief of staff.

Considered by Gen. Booth the cleverest of all his children, Miss Eva Booth has been active in the Salvation Army since she was a child. She made her first acquaintance with America when she was sent here to assume temporary command after the resignation of Ballington Booth from the command of the Salvation Army of the United States.

Miss Eva Booth began work in the army when she was 12 years old selling the War Cry.

After she left the London training barracks with the rank of lieutenant, at her own request she was assigned to work among the London poor, depending upon her clear, mezzo-soprano voice and her skill with musical instruments to win the affection of the people among whom she elected to work.

In the spring of 1884, clad in rags as a child of the poor, and with a shawl covering her head, and a banjo under her arm, she started out on her first campaign work for the army. In sunshine and rain, day after day, she went about the London slums, singing her way into the hearts of the people. Some of the songs that the army likes best have been composed by her, and were sung by her before they were written in music.

The Salvation Army was then making a hard campaign for existence against the prejudice of the people where its work was to be done, and there were frequent disturbances upon the streets and in the halls, when stones were thrown and clubs used, but the young woman never faltered in the work, often quelling those disturbances with her song.

RUSSIAN EXHIBIT IS TAKING SHAPE

Commissioners From Czar's Empire Blame Their Chief, Alexandrovsky, for Long Delay.

AMERICAN MINISTER HELPED

Art Display, Being Installed Next to Japanese, Contains Number of Famous Paintings.

The commissioners in charge of the Russian exhibits at the World's Fair have an interesting story to tell of the reasons for the delay and partial failure in completing their display from that usually accepted in this country.

According to these, the fault lies with their chief commissioner, Serge Alexandrovsky, who, after beginning the work, made a report to the czar that there were no Russian treasures deserving exhibiting.

"When this was mentioned to United States Ambassador McCormack at St. Petersburg," he said, "I have the names of over a hundred gentlemen anxious to exhibit."

Meanwhile work had been stopped, because of Alexandrovsky's report to the czar. Correspondence was necessary before things could be got under way again, and two months were thus lost. Chief Commissioner Alexandrovsky's motive is obscure.

A thousand and one discouragements had to be borne by exhibitors, but J. W. Goldberg, in charge of the art section, and M. Berkowitz, who is in the Varied Industries exhibit, are now pushing things to completion.

EVA BOOTH TO HEAD THE SALVATION ARMY WORKERS IN AMERICA

Onward! Onward! "Looking into Jesus"—Hymn 1212

MISS EVA BOOTH

Cleverest and Youngest Daughter of the Founder of the Organization Will Succeed Booth-Tucker, Who Becomes the Chief of Staff.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The departure of Commander Booth-Tucker for England in November, where he goes to fill a high office in the international body of the Salvation Army, will leave the post of commander of the army in the United States vacant.

It is generally understood that Commissioner Eva Booth, the youngest daughter of Gen. Booth, now at the head of the Salvation Army in Canada, will be appointed the successor of Commander Booth-Tucker.

The selection of Eva Booth to supreme command in America, succeeding her sister, Consul Emma Booth-Tucker, who met a tragic death in a railroad accident at Dean Lake, Ia., last fall, as the representative of the Booth family in America, will prove pleasing to the officers and members of the army here.

Her probable appointment has been spoken of ever since the death of Mrs. Booth-Tucker, after which it was known that Commander Booth-Tucker would probably be recalled to England to fill a place close in rank to that of Gen. Booth in international headquarters. It is now stated that Commander Booth-Tucker will probably become chief of staff.

Considered by Gen. Booth the cleverest of all his children, Miss Eva Booth has been active in the Salvation Army since she was a child. She made her first acquaintance with America when she was sent here to assume temporary command after the resignation of Ballington Booth from the command of the Salvation Army of the United States.

Miss Eva Booth began work in the army when she was 12 years old selling the War Cry.

After she left the London training barracks with the rank of lieutenant, at her own request she was assigned to work among the London poor, depending upon her clear, mezzo-soprano voice and her skill with musical instruments to win the affection of the people among whom she elected to work.

In the spring of 1884, clad in rags as a child of the poor, and with a shawl covering her head, and a banjo under her arm, she started out on her first campaign work for the army. In sunshine and rain, day after day, she went about the London slums, singing her way into the hearts of the people. Some of the songs that the army likes best have been composed by her, and were sung by her before they were written in music.

The Salvation Army was then making a hard campaign for existence against the prejudice of the people where its work was to be done, and there were frequent disturbances upon the streets and in the halls, when stones were thrown and clubs used, but the young woman never faltered in the work, often quelling those disturbances with her song.

She went to the mining villages in Cornwall, and was the first woman to ever descend the mine into the mines in this district. She won many converts, and often visited the mining villages.

After Rose Mercey Zoytous, the Asiatic field worker, had just been passed, she was the first woman to ever descend the mine into the mines in this district. She won many converts, and often visited the mining villages.

Famous Missouri Humorist Is Idolized by People of Florence, Says American Resident.

TROUBLE WITH HIS LANDLADY

Italian Verbs and Italian Cigars Are Sources of His Mirth-Producing Vexation.

"You mustn't smoke too much," Dr. Klerach of Florence told Mark Twain, while treating the famous Missourian for bronchitis at the Villa di Quarto.

"How can I?" replied the humorist. "There are only 24 hours in a day."

George Gregory Smith of Florence, who is at the Jefferson Hotel, tells the story. It is one of many anecdotes he is relating of the "most distinguished American."

"When Mark Twain came to Florence," says Mr. Smith, "he inquired about brands of Italian cigars. I recommended a cigar called the Branca. I explained to him that I considered it good, although its price was five for a nickel."

"After he had smoked one he said: 'Smith, that cigar is like a lot of roses or violet water. The only valuable thing about it is the cent.'"

"That was characteristic of Mark Twain while in Florence, as probably everywhere else," Mr. Smith continued. "His sense of humor constantly dropped from his lips as well as his pen, and he didn't mind rining in a pun occasionally."

"The Italian language, which he knew only imperfectly, afforded him a source of much merriment. So did certain Italian customs. He wrote just as he thought about these subjects, and the Italians, who have a keen sense of humor, enjoyed them instead of taking offense at his thing."

Mark Twain made an instant impression on Mark Twain when he landed in Florence was the color of the overcoat worn by the contact, or farmers of the neighboring country. This color is a deep orange, a flaming brand of steel, and is surrounded by a pair of about 25 acres.

Humorists have often written of other men having trouble with their landladies, but Mark Twain had real trouble with his. "She happened to be a countess at that time," Mr. Smith said. "She was a beautiful woman, and she was a countess. When Mark Twain moved into the beautiful villa she asked him to take her 'fairy tale' to her room, so she might have a beautiful villa he had leased. It happened that I leased the villa in the same time I wish I hadn't. It is about three and one-half miles from Florence towards Arezzo, and is surrounded by a pair of about 25 acres."

Mark Twain lived in Florence from last November until his wife died. He was idolized by the people there, and the English colony worshipped him. Occasionally he gave readings in public, but the greater part of his time was spent in the beautiful villa he had leased. It happened that I leased the villa in the same time I wish I hadn't. The girl whose slenderness is such that ordinarily she suggests more an X-ray picture of a pretty woman than a pretty woman herself, is in summer apt to find more admirers than the abounding Hebe. For she both looks and is cooler, and when the thermometer begins to soar there are few of us whose ideal beauty could not be defined as a girl that looks cool.

candidates. Among such men the practice of holding securely to one office until better and a bigger one shall have been captured is entirely too prevalent. It surrounds our official positions with a personal selfishness which never fails to find reflection in the acts of the occupant. That Judge Parker did not follow this common practice is entirely to his credit, and shows him to have a sense of honor, even in little things, that is reassuring.

It is a charming sketch, and if Miss Berens has ever done anything quite so well it is hard to recall any such feat.

"H. Japanese" is written by Grace Griswold. It is a red-checked little piece of a playlet, and it is not necessary to say much of anything else at the moment. The sketch is alone worth going there to see.

POST-DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF DOINGS IN MARKET AND FINANCIAL WORLD

STATE NATIONAL BANK UP IN THE DOLLAR AGAIN
MAKES SHARP GAIN

Advance of 3 Points Is Noted on This Issue on Very Light Sales.

BALANCE OF THE LIST STEADY BAD NORTHWESTERN NEWS

Lincoln Trust Is Firm and Slightly Higher, Although No Sales Are Made.

A considerable falling off in the volume of business transacted as compared to yesterday's session was noticeable today, but although the trading was quieter prices on these securities mentioned showed a decided tendency to advance, and especially was this true in State National Bank and Lincoln Trust.

State National, after early bids of $18.50, was steadily bid up until $19.00 was reached, when 20 shares were taken and the close found this security in fairly active demand at this figure, but sellers still asking a quite liberal advance. The price on this issue showed an advance of 3 points from the sale last recorded, in Lincoln Trust the demand was still fair, and although no sales were recorded, the bid price showed a gain of 1/2 a point from yesterday.

Missouri Trust was still reactionary and declined a full point on sales of 41 shares at $12.50. Mississippi Valley Trust was steady at $32.00 and Mercantile was slightly higher at $33.00 for 5 shares.

The reaction issues were extremely quiet and slightly easier on light sales. Transit selling in a small way at $11.75 and $11.85, while United Railways preferred was 1/2 lower on the transfer of 20 shares at $4.75. Miscellaneous and bond department no demand of any kind was apparent and no sales in these issues were recorded.

NO MONEY, NO WORK, NO LIFE, GOODBY

Message to His Wife on Taking Poison.

Discouraged over his discharge from a position as telegraph operator for the Donovan Commission Co., George Goodwin, 24 years old, committed suicide in his room at 328 Windsor place last night, a few minutes after his wife had left the house to spend the evening with friends.

Goodwin lost his position Monday morning, and was very despondent the entire day, although his wife did not suspect that he would take his life. Monday evening she left the house, saying she was going to visit friends. A few moments after she had gone her husband drank carbolic acid. He was found by Mrs. Catherine Bick, owner of the boarding house, and a doctor summoned, but before he arrived Goodwin was dead.

In his hand was found a note addressed to "M," his wife's initial. It read: "No money. No work. No life. Good-bye, Geo." Mrs. Goodwin was immediately notified and took charge of the body.

TRAVEL 8000 MILES TO WORLD'S FAIR

Pittsburg Knights Templar Coming to the Exposition by Way of the Pacific Coast.

As a crowning feature of their journey of 8000 miles, Pittsburg Commandry No. 1 of the Knights Templar will visit the World's Fair for a period of four days, during which time they will be entertained by the local commandry.

A special train will bring them to St. Louis from Kansas City, Sept. 21. During their stay here they will be quartered at the inside inn.

Previous to their arrival they will have made a pilgrimage of nearly 8000 miles, having traveled from Pittsburg to the Pacific coast, stopping en route at Minneapolis, Helena, Spokane Falls, Seattle and Portland, and thence to San Francisco, where they will remain several days attending the twenty-ninth convocation of the Knights Templar, which convenes there Sept. 6.

It is estimated that 300 members, with their wives will attend the encampment from Commandry No. 1. This commandry is said to be one of the wealthiest and largest in the United States, and the pilgrimage which it will take is the greatest that an individual society has ever made in this country.

SAYS HE LURED STOLEN BOY TO WOMAN'S HOUSE

Suspect in New York "Black Hand" Mystery Identifies Mrs. Coneglio as the Person to Whom He Gave Antonio Mannino.

NO TRACE OF CHILD YET,
POLICE FEAR HE'S DEAD

Authorities Admit They Are Helpless,
Though They Have the Written
Confession of an Accomplice in the Crime—Kidnapers Know the Law.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Postponement of hearing until Friday was ordered today by Magistrate Tighe in the case of four suspects under arrest in the Mannino kidnaping mystery. Bail was increased from $2000 to $4000.

One of the suspects, Cucozza, was asked today in court if he recognized the Coneglio woman, also a suspect, and he promptly replied:

"Yes, I know her. She is the woman to whom I took Tony Mannino last Tuesday night."

Mrs. Coneglio denied having any knowledge of Cucozza or the Mannino boy.

While Capt. Rooney and the detectives who have been at work on the case from the beginning will not say openly that they believe the boy will never be restored to his parents alive, yet among themselves they do not hesitate to whisper their fears. Nobody knows better than do Capt. Rooney and Detective Sergeant Antonio Vachris the desperate character of the kidnapers.

Police Fear for the Child's Life.

Capt. Rooney has been attached to the Amity Street Station for a long while. He is thoroughly acquainted with the criminal Italian class and its methods. Vachris is the only Italian detective attached to the Brooklyn Detective Bureau. He is a man of large acquaintance among the Italians and he has made many an important arrest.

And as for Mannino, the father of the missing boy, and his partner in business, Giuseppe Segretto, nobody knows the ways of Sicilian bandits better than they. Mannino knew that Vito Laduca, wanted as the arch-conspirator of the band of kidnapers, was connected with the notorious "barrel murder" case. When the man was under arrest in Manhattan at that time wanted funds with which to employ counsel they went to the many Italian contractors in Greater New York and asked for subscriptions. A list of the suspects was attached to this subscription list, and the name of Vito Laduca was on the list with the rest of the gang. Mannino had to subscribe. A request for a subscription was equivalent to an order, and woe unto him that refused.

The Kidnapers
Know the Law.

Capt. Rooney and his detectives argue thus: As long as the boy is still missing no prosecution can be had against the men and the woman already under arrest. The only evidence that the police have today is the statement made by Angelo Cucozza, who first lured the boy away. It is true that Cucozza has made his confession in writing, and in that confession he has given the police the names of the persons now under arrest as well as those of others now sought by the detectives. But the statements made by Cucozza are without corroboration, and he is an accomplice, and the testimony of an accomplice is not admitted at a criminal trial unless it be well corroborated.

The kidnapers are in a position to employ the very best legal talent. They have been told that no district attorney would go before a grand jury and ask for their indictment upon the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice who has turned state's evidence.

Again Cucozza might be induced to swear that he lied when he told the police that men now under arrest and the others sought for were implicated in the kidnaping. Cucozza could be made to swear that he told these lies in order to escape further punishment, and he could then be asked to tell the various stories of how Capt. Rooney and his men worked the third degree upon him while he was actually under arrest, confined in the Amity street police station.

Capable of Any Crime.

If the kidnapers, the police say, should kill the boy and manage to dispose of his body in such a way that it will never be recovered, then the chances of the escape of the prisoners from punishment are not lessened, although it is doubtful whether a magistrate could be found who would take it upon himself to discharge the prisoners so long as the boy Antonio had not been restored to his parents.

"Of course," said Capt. Rooney, "we hope to be able to recover the boy alive. We do not want even to think that his captors may kill him. But again we realize the fact that these people belong to a band of desperadoes who stop at nothing, who regard human life but slightly, and who would not hesitate to commit murder."

"That they are capable of doing this they have proved in this country, and no doubt, if the truth were known, many of them were implicated in the commission of all sorts of crimes long before they left their native land. There is no doubt in my mind that the man who has the boy in custody today are well acquainted with our movements. They know what we are doing, for they have their spies out. We know that."

A LIVE LAXATIVE For SLOW LIVERS

HEPTOL SPLITS,

IN THE RACE OF LIFE

The man can run his best who has an active liver, a stomach in good order and no excess of bile.

The exquisite, sparkling, laxative mineral water, renders pills and potions unnecessary. It works equally well in the case of the strong man or the young child. Effective but harmless.
